

ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER
NO. 2004-05-04

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE NINTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT, IN AND FOR ORANGE & OSCEOLA
COUNTIES, FLORIDA

AMENDED ORDER IMPLEMENTING A STANDING TEMPORARY ORDER FOR DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE ACTIONS WITH OR WITHOUT MINOR CHILDREN, ORANGE & OSCEOLA COUNTIES

WHEREAS, to promote the stability of families going through a divorce; and

WHEREAS, to provide guidance to parties in dissolution of marriage actions to help parties pattern their behavior in ways that will reduce conflict and make the divorce work for the family; and

WHEREAS, to reduce the negative impact that dissolution of marriage actions have on children and the parties involved; and

WHEREAS, to reduce the number of “emergency” hearings during the beginning stages of dissolution of marriage actions thereby promoting stability and preserving resources of the parties and the Court; and

WHEREAS, it is in the best interests of the parties and children, or child as the case may be, that parents in a divorce case learn about the problems, duties, and responsibilities of litigation and parenting after separation and divorce, and that the parties preserve their assets and comply with Court rules; and

WHEREAS, the Judges assigned to the Domestic Relations Division have developed, with the assistance of the Family Law bar, a standing temporary order to be utilized in dissolution of marriage cases in an effort to achieve the above stated goals;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Belvin Perry, Jr., in order to facilitate the efficient administration of justice, and pursuant to the authority vested in me as Chief Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit of Florida under Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.215, hereby order the following, effective immediately, and to continue until further order:

1. SERVICE, APPLICATION, AND TERM OF THIS ORDER.

a. This Standing Temporary Order for Dissolution of Marriage Action With or Without Minor Children shall be utilized and complied with immediately upon the filing of contested dissolution of marriage actions in Orange and Osceola Counties, except in cases where there is a written agreement by the parties to the contrary before or after this order takes effect.

b. The Clerk of Court shall docket and provide a copy of this Standing Temporary Order to the Petitioner or to the Petitioner's counsel at the time the Petitioner files the Petition for Dissolution of Marriage.

c. In addition, the Petitioner shall deliver a copy of this Standing Temporary Order to the process server to be served on the Respondent with the Petition for Dissolution of Marriage.

d. This Order is binding on the Petitioner upon the filing of this action and on the Respondent upon service of this Order.

e. This Order shall not supercede or modify any existing domestic violence injunction or other order by a court having jurisdiction over the parties or minor children concerning these matters.

f. This Order shall remain in full force and effect until further order of the court such as the entry of a final judgment, a dismissal of this cause, or until the entry of a subsequent temporary order, whichever shall occur first. This Order is without prejudice and does not preclude a Judge from modifying or amending this Order in individual cases as the Judge sees fit. Any part of this Order not changed by a subsequent order shall remain in effect.

2. CONTACT WITH BOTH PARENTS: SHARED PARENTING.

a. It is the law that, unless the Court makes a specific ruling that it would be detrimental to the children, the Court shall order shared parental responsibility, contact with both parents is in the children's best interests, and children are entitled to frequent and continuing contact with both parents when the parents separate or divorce. In establishing the parenting plan and time sharing schedule, the Court will analyze the factors set forth in section 61.13(3), Florida Statutes. However, until a court order is entered each party is entitled to the same rights to timesharing with the children.

b. Further, a parent who wants to have the majority of the time-sharing with the children has an affirmative obligation to encourage and nurture a relationship between the children and the other parent. A parent who unreasonably restricts access of the children to the other parent and does not encourage a relationship between the children and the other parent, for no valid reason, perhaps should have less time-sharing with the children. Such a parent is not acting in the children's best interests and is not following the law.

c. The Court hereby orders "shared parenting" of the children by the parents. This means that wherever the children are living from time to time, the parents must confer with each other and agree upon all MAJOR parenting decisions. Therefore, both parents must participate in all major parenting decisions and shall immediately work out their own time sharing schedules, with each party having substantial overnight timesharing on a regular basis. If the parents cannot agree on any issue, then the Court will decide.

d. The attached shared parenting guidelines and the parents respect for and compliance with them shall be considered by the Court in future child related matters, such as the determination of the parenting plan and time-sharing schedule with the children.

3. PARENTING CLASS REQUIRED.

Pursuant to section 61.21, Florida Statutes, and Amended Administrative Order No. 07-98-37-01, all parties to a dissolution of marriage proceeding with minor children must attend and complete The Parent Education and Family Stabilization Course prior to entry by the Court of a final judgment. Completion of the course is mandatory in all cases, contested or uncontested, where the parents have minor children. Therefore, even if the parties have settled, they must both attend the course.

All parties required to complete a parenting course under this section shall begin the course as expeditiously as possible. Unless excused by the court for good cause, the Petitioner must complete the course within 45 days after the filing of the petition, and all other parties must complete the course within 45 days after service of the petition. Each party to a dissolution action shall file a certificate of completion of the course with the court prior to the entry of the final judgment. Failure to comply with this Order may result in the Court's dismissal of the action, striking of pleadings, and/or other appropriate sanctions.

4. NO RELOCATION OF CHILDREN OR FOREIGN TRAVEL.

Neither party shall change the residence of the children from the school zone in which the children's home is currently located without the written agreement of both parties or an order of this Court. Neither party may change a child's assigned school zone nor change the day care arrangement without the written agreement of both parties or an order of this Court. Neither party shall allow the children to travel outside the country without written agreement of the parties or Court order.

5. CHILD SUPPORT.

In general, the law requires child support to be paid from the date the parties separated, which is nearly always a date before the petition was filed. Therefore, to avoid building up an arrearage in child support, the parent with a support obligation according to the guidelines must make voluntary payments of child support to the other parent prior to the entry of an order requiring payment of support. Waiting for an order can be very expensive because child support can be ordered from the date of separation. If child support is paid in excess of that required by the statute, the paying parent may ask for a credit. Child support will be determined by the child support guidelines, pursuant section 61.30, Florida Statutes. Therefore, it is in both parties' best interests to determine the correct amount of child support quickly and begin paying promptly.

6. CONDUCT OF THE PARTIES DURING THE CASE; SANCTIONS.

Any unwanted physical contact between a husband and a wife is a crime and is vigorously prosecuted. Food, shelter, utilities, transportation and necessary medical expenses shall continue to be paid as they were during the intact marriage until further order of the Court or written agreement of the parties. Failure to obey this provision and/or any other part of this Order may result in injunction orders and/or contempt proceedings. Contempt of Court is punishable by a sentence in the county jail.

7. DISPOSITION OF ASSETS; ACCOUNTING.

Neither party may conceal, damage, or dispose of any asset, whether marital or non-marital, and neither party may dissipate the value of an asset, for example, by adding a mortgage to real estate or by failing to take care of any asset. Neither party may dispose of any asset other than in the customary conduct of business and personal affairs. The parties may spend their incomes in the ordinary course of their personal and family affairs. Neither party may conceal, hoard or waste jointly owned funds, whether in the form of cash, bank accounts or other liquid assets, except funds may be spent for the necessities of life. The use of funds or income after separation must be accounted for and justified as reasonable and necessary for the necessities of the party or to preserve marital assets or pay marital debts. Both parties are accountable for all money or property in their possession during the marriage and after separation. Attorney's fees and costs are necessities and must be accounted for. Nothing herein prohibits the Court from allocating attorney's fees and costs paid out of marital funds to either party in equitable distribution as allowed by law.

8. PERSONAL AND BUSINESS RECORDS/INSURANCE.

Neither party may, directly or indirectly conceal from the other or destroy any family records, business records, or any records of income, debt, or other obligations. Any insurance policies in effect at the time the petition for dissolution was filed may not be terminated, allowed to lapse, concealed, modified, borrowed against, pledged or otherwise encumbered by either of the parties or at the direction of either party. All insurance policies of any kind may not be changed, except by written agreement signed by the parties or order of the Court. The parties shall continue to pay all premiums on a timely basis unless there is a written consent by both parties or an order of the Court.

9. ADDITIONAL DEBT.

Neither party will incur additional debt which would bind the other party, pledge, encumber and/or mortgage any assets, except by written consent of the parties, order of this Court or as provided herein. The parties are urged to temporarily stop using joint credit cards. This does not prohibit use of joint credit for absolute necessities but only as a last resort. No joint credit cards may be cancelled or modified absent agreement of the parties or court order.

Any party using a joint credit card after separation must be prepared to justify all charges as reasonable and necessary for necessities.

10. SANCTIONS FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH COURT RULES AND THIS ORDER.

If a party fails to comply with the rules requiring the production of financial records and other documents, or fails to answer interrogatories or attend a deposition, or otherwise fails to comply with the rules requiring disclosure or discovery, or if a party fails to comply with the terms of this Order, that party will be sanctioned by an order the Court, which may include a monetary payment to the other party.

11. MEDIATION.

Mediation is encouraged early in the proceedings and prior to noticing the case for trial and on temporary matters, prior to scheduling a temporary hearing. Several mediation conferences should be held in all cases when required and in order to accomplish a result that both parties fully understand and with which they are both comfortable.

12. COMMUNICATION WITH OPPOSING PARTY, COURT POLICIES AND PROCEDURES.

The attorneys and parties shall communicate with each other in a civil and courteous manner. Attorneys shall make a good faith effort to communicate personally with each other by telephone or in person if a problem exists before filing a motion. The attorneys, appointed experts, and the parties shall be courteous and respectful of everyone in the process. Both parties and attorneys shall share documentary information in such a manner as to avoid duplication of work. When setting hearings, conferences, and depositions, an attorney may not schedule any matter without first making a good faith effort to coordinate the date and time with opposing counsel's office and certifying on the notice of hearing that a good faith effort has been made with opposing counsel to resolve the issues of the motion.

The parties and their attorneys shall comply with Ninth Judicial Circuit Court Administrative Order No. 2014-19 (as may be amended), Establishing Domestic Court Guidelines and Administrative Order No. 2003-07-01 (as may be amended), Establishing the Ninth Judicial Circuit Courtroom Decorum Policy. Additionally parties and attorneys shall comply with the Uniform Policies and Procedures for the Domestic Division of the Circuit Court, Orange County.

13. FORMS.

Individuals who are not represented by counsel may obtain forms that have been approved by the Florida Supreme Court by accessing the Court's website at www.ninthcircuit.org. Once at the website, click the "self help" tab on the right of the page, then look for “court forms”. A link to the Florida Supreme Court family court forms website is also provided under this tab. The forms are available without charge.

Administrative Order 2004-05-03 is vacated and set aside and has been incorporated and/or amended herein.

DONE AND ORDERED on this 5th day of August, 2014.

SHARED PARENTING GUIDELINES

The safety, financial security and well-being of the children involved in this case are the Court's primary concern. Parents should follow these guidelines:

It is the law, except in certain rare circumstances, that both parents will share parental responsibility for all minor children involved in this case. The law requires parents to share the children's time and to participate together in making all important decisions concerning the children. The law expects parents to put aside their feelings and cooperate on all decisions involving the children. Therefore, parents must recognize the following:

Children have a right to a loving, open and continuing relationship with both parents. They have the right to express love, affection and respect for one parent in the presence of the other parent.

Neither parent may alienate a child's affection for the other parent.

Parents must separate any bad feelings for one another from their duties as parents. Their duty is to share the children's time and share in making parenting decisions. Children must be free to draw their own conclusions about each parent, without the prejudicial influences of the other parent.

Children have the right to never hear a parent, or a relative or friend of a parent, run down or degrade the other parent.

Children have the right to be free from guilt because the parents have decided to separate. They are entitled to honest answers to questions about changes taking place in family makeup.

Parents should never be so preoccupied with their own problems that they fail to meet the children's needs. Separation of the parents usually has a worse impact on the children than on the parents, a fact both parents should never forget.

Each parent should openly, honestly, respectfully and regularly communicate with the other parent to avoid misunderstandings. They should never argue about the children in front of them.

Parents should discuss all differences regarding their separation and financial issues between them and parenting decisions out of the presence of the child. Both parents should always try to present a united front in handling any problems with the children.

Generally, children have the right to regular and continuing contact with both parents. Parents should arrange all time-sharing and exchanges together and not through the child. The child should never be the messenger between the parents.

Time-sharing plans should be kept and never cancelled unless absolutely necessary. If plans change, children should be given an explanation, preferably in advance and by the parent causing the cancellation.

Common courtesies (politeness, promptness, readiness, calling to notify if one is going to be late) should always be observed when picking up and dropping off children. These times can be very stressful on children, so it is imperative that parents always behave as responsible adults.

Between visits, children should be encouraged to contact the absent parent by letter and phone, frequently and continuously.

Parent/child access and child support, while they may be emotionally connected, are separate and distinct under the law. Accordingly, a child's right of access to his or her parent is not contingent upon the payment of child support.

A child should never be the delivery person for support payments.

Both parents are entitled to participate in and attend all special activities in which their children are engaged, such as religious activities, school programs, sports events and other extra-curricular activities and programs.
